

Tim “Mad Dog” Lavin

Tim was a football player when he was in college at USC. After participating in two Rose Bowls and the John Hancock Bowl, he had tryouts with the San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders. As for the name Mad Dog...that was his nickname when he was a fullback for the USC Trojans.

Tim Lavin was involved in the program from 1988-91. Originally a "walk-on," he earned a scholarship through hard work and talent and was a member of two Rose Bowl teams (1988-89) and the 1990 team that went to the John Hancock Bowl. He is working on a book about his experiences with the catchy, Doors-riff title Walk On Through to the Other Side.
